Trust Advanced Meat Prices.

Prices of all kinds of meat have begun responding increase of from four to slx cents per pound at retail on the average grade of sirloin steak, porterhouse steak and prime ribs of roast beef.

An increase of two cents per pound wholesale means that the trust will levy an extra $200,000 upon the New York reatil butchers each week; a corresponding increase of five cents per pound by the retailer means that the consumers must pay $500,000 more each week for their meat. The retail butchers have protested against the trust's increase in valu. They have postponed ten days the corresponding raise in prices for their own protection, but they were notified yesterday that there will be a further raise in the price of dressed cattle next week and found it nec-essary to increase the price to consumers.

LINES DRAWN ON ANTI-MORMON RESOLUTION.

Proceedings of the Women's Convention at Pythian Temple—The Closing Session.

The National Council of Women met this morning in Pythian Temple, on 9th street, to transact business only, and adjourned at 1 o'clock to attend the luncheon at the Shoreham complimentary to the newly elected officers. The closing session will be held this evening in the ball room of the Shoreham and will be public.

The spirited discussion of the different resolutions presented occupied the most of the morning session, and things were doing until the adjournment. Indeed, the members of the triennial council meeting seem to be of the opinion that there has been a good deal of talk that might wisely have been eliminated

Some of the members of the council are eeling today that they were rather hasty in indorsing or rejecting any propaganda of the constituent bodies of that organization. The council Wednesday reaffirmed its general policy as follows: "This council is organized in the interest of no one propaganda, • • therefore, no organization voting to enter this council shall hereby render itself liable to be interfered with in reder itself liable to be interfered with in respect to its complete organic unity, inde-pendence or methods of work, or to be committed to any principle or method of any other organization, or to any act or utterance of the council itself," etc. Within twenty-four hours it adopted a stringent anti-polygamy resolution, which cuts the very foundation from under the richest so-clates in the council. "The Young Ladies" cieties in the council. "The Young Ladies' National Mutual Improvement Associa-tion" and the "National Woman's Relief Society," both organizations of women be-longing to the Mormon Church, and no Gentile is eligible.

It will be remembered, that The Star had a story of this clash of Mormon and anti-Mormon sentiment in the triennial session of the council here in 1902. One wing introduced strong anti-polygamy resolutions, and the majority of the council fiercely combatted the consideration of these at all. The meetings were held behind closed doors, but that did not pre-vent the details of the discussion from

The anti-polygamy resolution had been The scars of battle were left, however and the Mormon women finally dropped out of the council meetings. They are not in attendance this year. It is stated to be probable that both of these societies will withdraw from the affiliation. A prominent member of the council said this morning that it they could scarcely remain since the council by a practically unanimous vote has said in brief that the Mormons were living in defiance of all moral law, and fostering institutions which the council believed are destructive of the home and state.

Opposed by Miss Anthony. Miss Anthony was bitterly opposed to the adoption of the resolution. She declared that in making a fight on any religion or indorsing any political propaganda the National Council is drifting away from its safe moorings. Mrs. Fred T. Dubois, wife of Senator Dubois, is jubilant over the adoption of the resolution. She declared that unless the women of the council proceeded to vote these two Mormon societies out it would soon find itself minus all the other organzations as they could not afford to affiliate with the Mormon societies. ply had to adopt the resolution," declared one of the national officers this morning; and another said it was very plain that the members of the Mormon societies ex-pected that this action would be taken, as

In view of alleged misapprehension concerning the manner in which these so-cieties got into the council the following detailed statement from Mrs. May Wright Sewall of how these two societies of the Mormon Church came to ally themselves with Gentiles is apropos:

"The Woman's Relief Society and the Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement Society asked to come in to the suffrage as-sociation," said Mrs. Sewall, "I saw the question came up as to whether Mormon women should be included in it. There were many good and noble women there who thought of not accepting such women in the association. Miss Anthony took another view, and so did I, and I know she will sustain the statement that it was due to our two combined efforts that we were able at the end of a twelve to ir session, at which I was present the entire time, to de-cide in favor of admitting them. "We did not admit them as polygamists or as Mormon societies, but one was accepted as a philanthropic society and the other as a local benevolent association. One of them is the work of a charity organization, the work of which extends throughout Utah, and the other is much similar to the work of women's clubs. Of those who represented them in the council two only, as far as I know, had lived in plural marriage, and neither of them had been living that way since entering the council, their husbands having diel years before. Many of the women were the daughters of plural marriages.

Resolution Under Consideration.

The committee on resolutions, Mrs. Elizabeth Grannis of New York, chairman, held the platform most of the morning. There was trouble right in the beginning. Mrs. Barns, recording secretary, wanted to know if the resolutions committee had any right to take resolutions offered by societies and ear them to pieces or make them over. Mrs. May Wright Sewall replied that the resolutions committee was made with exactly that purpose in view—to take resolu-tions and make them over in presentable shape, not losing the sense of the original. Mrs. Barns declared that she did not like the method. She also stated that she un derstood that the committee had tabled several resolutions laid before it. She did not think the committee should be clothed with powers, which should be exercised only by the council.

The anti-polygamy resolution was read by Mrs. Grannis, chairman, but, having been adopted yesterday, was passed.

A resolution deploring the horrors of war in general and of the war in the east in particular, provoked some discussion, but was finally adopted. That the knowledge of the progress of the colored people of the United States along all lines of human endeavor might become better known, the National Council of Women resolved to keep before the public in every way possible the facts presented on the subject, and to assist in founding and maintaining kindergartens and day nurseries, especially among the poorer classes of colored people. The next resolution was so constructed that the council could get very little light on it, but proceeded to adopt it. It declared for the "initiative and referendum as the most effective means of securing rights for woman." A resolution on divorce called Miss Anthony to the front.

The resolution recited that where "counsellors and agitators in church and state are talking and writing much against diorce, which is known to cause most disastrous results in the family and state, the National Council of Women should seek, through co-operation with church and state to interest all organizations and individuals pledged to social and civic betterment of he people to ascertain what are the chief causes which induce or lead up to divorce." The resolution also declared "that we, the National Council of Women, practice and teach better methods of scientific and spiritual marriage, which must result in the nigher preparation for offspring."

Spirited Debate.

Miss Anthony declared she did not consider divorce an evil by any means. It was just as much a refuge for women married to brutal men as Canada was once a refuge rom brutal masters.

Mrs. Grannis asked the privilege of de-ending the resolution, which was offered to the society, of which she is president. She tried to explain to Miss Anthony that the resolution was not intended to cut out divorce entirely, but to seek out the causes leading up to divorce, Miss Anthony broke in on Mrs. Grannis and said she could read and that she saw in the resolution more than Mrs. Grannis did. Miss Anthony declared she never would vote for a resolution that would cut women off from refuge from designing and brutal men. There was some pretty plain talk, but in the end the resolution was

Other resolutions adopted declared against the indiscriminate use and desecration of the flag and the purpose of in-stilling in the minds of the children and youth of the land a proper regard for the principles the flag represents, and a belief that equal moral and legal responsi-bility should be placed on father and mother in and out of wedlock, and that he mother not be the only one to suffer if a crime is committed. The council considered and adopted a plan of work and parliamentary procedure in the closing hour of the morning session. It was expected that Mrs. Roosevelt would receive the members of the Na-tional Council of Women at the White House, but having been called to New York by the illness of her nephew, the reception has been given up. Session Last Evening.

The evening session of the council, as usual, drew the biggest crowd of the day. Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey was the first speaker of the evening, her subject being in the nature of a report from the committhe sacredness of the marital ties and the alarming increase in divorce. She spoke principally of marital relations. "There is no more hopeful sign than that the ministry has begun to accept the responsibility for so many unhappy marriages," she said. "I believe that if there were not so many hasty marriages there would be a decrease of 50 per cent. in the divorces. There should be universal legislation compelling each to give a notice of a week or six weeks. Interesting items of prospective partners should be brought out before rather than after marriage. The great difficulty in state divorce legislation is its diversity, for a man can be divorced in one state and not in another under the same circumstances. The cause immediate marriage to another party. In Washington there have been second mar-riages before the ink on the divorce decree was dry. I do not say that I do not be-lieve in divorce, but that I believe in permanent marriage, because every child has a right to be well born. Fifty per cent of delinquent children come from the homes of dissension. To offset this there should be a law making each parent equally re-sponsible for the child."

International Relations. Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, corresponding secretary of the National Council of Women of Canada, and editor of the International Bulletin, made an address on "Our International Relations." She spoke now have nineteen national councils in the international body, and that means a wonwomen represented should get to know each other. It means much for peace, for they have drawn the nations nearer to-Mrs. May Wright Sewall, honorary president of the International Council of Women and also of the National Council of Women of the United States, spoke on "The Spirit of Internationalism," in which she attacked national bullying. They were not founded on force or on numbers expressed in majorities co ercing minorities, but each counts alike.

At the afternoon session of the council yesterday, which did not convene till nearly 3 o'clock, Mrs. Cordelia Quinby presented the report of the National Women's Centenary Association, and was followed by Mrs. Frances S. Moser of the National Free Baptists' Missionary Society, both of whom reviewed the missionary work of their organizations.

Mrs. Lydia A. Monroe, supreme chief of the Rathbone Sisters, made the report of that organization. "It numbers more than 600,000 members," she said. "We are constantly striving to unite in one mighty organization of Pythian women members who will appreciate and try to amplify the golden rule; to assist the needy and dis-tressed, comfort the sick and helpless, and extend the sisterly aid that only the true and womanly woman can."

Mrs. Emma Bower of Ann Arbor, Mich., presented the report of the Great Hive of Modern Maccabees. "The Ladies of the Modern Maccabees is the pioneer society in the categories of the modern was a significant or the modern of the modern was a significant or the modern of t fraternal beneficiary organizations, and it can well be understood why we adopted our name. We are very proud of our age, of sively for women, but we extend the glad hand to every organization engaged in the same great work."

Reports of local councils were presented by Mrs. Steinem of Toledo, Mrs. Calinda Jones of Bradford, Vt., and Mrs. Josie Nelson of Union City, Ind.

The program for this evening at the Shoreham is as follows: "Patriotism," Mrs. Fannie L. Minot, president of the National Woman's Relief Corps; "What Fraternal Benefit Socities Mean to Women," Mrs. Lillian M. Hollister, president of the Supreme
